When the Oslo-based Ensemble Temporum embark on their Northern Connection Train Tour - with several concerts along the way to Aberdeen and Nordic Music Days in Glasgow - they return via London and St Olave's Church, bringing with them new works by a younger generation of Nordic composers.

Ensemble Temporum is a contemporary music ensemble based in Oslo. The ensemble has performed at international festivals such as Ultima, Klang, UNM, Kaivos, Sound, etc, and several concerts have been broadcasted on Norwegian radio. They have commissioned works and collaborated closely with several composers, such as Bauck, Berstad, Buene, Czernowin, etc. Their recording of Chaya Czernowins Fast Darkness III will be published on wergo in 2025.

The ensemble consists of a sextet and the conductor Kai Grinde Myrann.

St Olave's Church, Hart Street, in the City of London is close to Fenchurch Street Station and 5 minutes walk from Tower Hill Underground station. It has an excellent acoustic for chamber music and is usually open weekdays from Monday - Thursday between 10.30am and 5.00pm.
